Part I Writing

参考范文：

I firmly believe that university sports facilities should be open to the public. The reasons for doing so are as follows.

Firstly, this arrangement can greatly enhance the utilization rate of the facilities, reducing waste and ensuring they serve a wider range of community members. Secondly, it could serve as a bridge between the university and the community, fostering stronger ties and promoting mutual understanding. Additionally, opening up the facilities to the public could generate additional revenue for the university, which could then be invested in further improving the quality of the facilities. However, it's crucial to ensure that the facilities remain safe and functional, with proper management and maintenance. Moreover, appropriate scheduling should be implemented to avoid any conflicts between students' and the public's use.

Overall, opening university sports facilities to the public is a beneficial move that can bring multiple benefits to both the university and the community.

The lunar calendar, which originated in China thousands of years ago, was formulated based on the movements of the sun and the moon. For a long time, the lunar calendar has played an important role in agricultural production and people's daily lives. Ancient people recorded dates and arranged farm work according to the lunar calendar in order to make the most efficient use of natural resources and climatic conditions to improve the yield and quality of crops. The Chinese Spring Festival, Mid-Autumn Festival and other traditional festivals are based on the lunar calendar. It is an important component of traditional Chinese culture and is still widely used today.
